A Note about the Proceedings

Any paper or poster presented at the Proceedings of the 3rd ¹⁴C and Diet Conference, University of Oxford, 20–23 June 2023 can be submitted for publication in the Proceedings.

The Proceedings will be published in the journal Radiocarbon (radiocarbon.org). As with all articles in Radiocarbon, the Proceedings will be peer-reviewed. The published articles will also appear online via Radiocarbon's Cambridge Core site (<http://cambridge.org/RDC>).

Authors will not receive a free printed copy but can purchase one (subject to availability) through the journal's publisher, Cambridge University Press (cindy.eyler@sheridan.com).

The Proceedings should be published before the end of 2024. More details will be provided upon submission of a manuscript. Please contact Managing Editor Kimberley Elliott at kimelliott@arizona.edu or Editor in Chief Tim Jull at jull@arizona.edu if you have any questions. We look forward to working with you.

Submitting Your Manuscript

Authors will submit their papers via Radiocarbon's manuscript management site, <https://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/rdc>. The Author's submission page features a pull-down list of article types. To ensure proper issue assignment, please select submission type "Conference Paper" and special issue "2023 ¹⁴C & Diet Conference". If you cannot submit your manuscript by Sept. 1, 2023 please contact the Managing Editor to request an extension.

For style and formatting guidelines, please carefully follow the Instructions for Contributors: <https://www.cambridge.org/core/journals/radiocarbon/information/instructions-contributors>. See also <https://radiocarbon.org/submissions> for issue-specific instructions.

Important

Proceedings articles will be published free of charge (non-OA) to participants, but due to the high number of submissions expected, length restrictions will apply to all submissions. Authors may choose to publish in OA format at their own cost or through a Read and Publish agreement.

Please limit your manuscript to 4500 words and 4 figures, which calculates to roughly 8 printed pages. To avoid excess pages, authors of longer papers are encouraged to submit some tables, figures, and/or data as free online supplemental material.
